Thinking of Selling? What would be Your Buyer's First Impression?

One thing is always true - you never get a second chance to make a first impression. That's why the first impression your buyer has of your home is critical to how the whole transaction goes, or even if a transaction will take place.

What's the first impression your buyer has of your home? Is it inviting? In good repair? Clean?

Buyers tend to judge homes by cost and "move-in" quality - the less they have to do to move-in, the better and the more they are willing to pay. A home that looks like a lot of work will cause the buyer to make a lower offer or none at all.

What can you do to assure that your home makes the best first impression?

- Polish the front door knob, wash the glass / door and sweep the front step area.
- Clean / paint mail-box & front gate.
- Clear away any debris or clutter from front door area to make entry to home seem more spacious and to allow freedom of movement for more than one person.
- Open windows daily for a few minutes to exchange stale air and/or cooking odors, mildew / moisture from hot showers and laundry.
- Switch low-watt bulbs to high-watt bulbs while selling, and turn all lights on (even for daytime viewings).
- If you are at work during the day, leave a radio on and turn on a couple of lights to make your home even more inviting.
- If you've had stale odors in the basement, due to rooms being closed over long periods, strategically locate an open bag of real charcoal, or large bags of baking soda, to absorb smells and help keep the air fresh.
- Clean carpeting and drapes to eliminate cooking odors, smoke and pet smells.
- Empty kitty litter trays "daily" while selling your home as buyers may find full trays offensive.
- Pack anything you won't use between now and moving day. Store boxes out of the way of traffic areas.
- Rearrange furniture to make rooms look more spacious and to create areas that are easy to pass without knocking over ornaments etc.
- Open dark drapes or blinds to lighten and brighten rooms.
- Ensure all doors open & close freely. Ensure all windows & doors close securely.
- Clean all signs of mould / mildew – Including back of drapes / curtains & on clothes / shoes in wardrobes.
- Replace washers in drippy taps.
- Play relaxing music so buyers feel free to speak without being overheard.
- Be pleasant but don't volunteer information unless the agent asks for your help. Buyers generally do not like to be followed about while viewing your home.
- Make a list, for your agent, of all the reasons this home appealed to you when you bought it. These reasons may be highlighted in the marketing of your home.
- Some people are allergic to pets or are frightened of pets. Keep your pets outside, or in a sectioned off area while guests are viewing.

- If you have unusual pets, eg. lizards, ferrets, snakes, pet rats, etc. board them out or get a pet sitter until your home is sold. Some agents (or buyers) may be terrified and they may be reluctant to view your home a second time.
- Keep perfumes, air fresheners and smoke to a minimum, as many people today have allergies.
- Keep the kitchen sparkling clean and counters free of medications, pill bottles, and anything that small children could accidentally get their hands on while visiting during the time their parents are in your home.
- Valuables such as jewellery, money, Doulton figurines - should be kept out of easy reach or put away completely while selling your home, also collectibles such as weapons, guns, knives or anything that may be dangerous.
- An agent should be present at all showings. Do not invite complete strangers into your home. Just because your home is on the market, it is not an open-door invitation to the public to arrive unannounced. Call your agent.
- Wash finger prints from doors & light switch plates.
- Pack away most of your small decorative items.
- Store out-of-season clothing to make closets seem roomier.
- To help improve your properties "curb appeal", trim the vegetation around your home -- particularly those bushes that may conceal windows. Then be sure that your landscaping looks great all of the time, even if you have to hire a gardener while your home is listed.
- If there is patio furniture or BBQ and playground equipment in the backyard, be sure it is in good repair.
- Speaking of hearth and home impressions, nothing says that more than a fireplace. If it is cold outside, light your fireplace, (provided it doesn't smoke). The image of a warm fire is universally appealing to buyers.
- Remove excess furniture. I know, ALL of your furniture is necessary, but..... Take a tour of the new homes in your neighbourhood, and you'll find furniture that is two-thirds of normal size, and very little of it. Why?.... Because it makes the rooms look larger.
- If possible, you should leave the premises while your home is being shown to potential buyers. Your presence makes buyers uncomfortable, and they may not linger long enough, or be honest enough with your agent, if they think you can hear their conversation.

If these tips don't help, then you can consider doing the expensive things. But give the tips above a try first. I am confident they will make your home more appealing and remember, appealing homes get more offers.

Now after doing all that, pretend you are a buyer and that you have never seen your home before. Would you buy? Why not? If you have any why not's left, take the time to fix them.

Need Help Presenting Your Home?

If you think you need help presenting your home at its best, there are "staging" services that can help.

A stager will do everything from completely moving out your belongings and installing new furnishings temporarily, to painting the walls and making cosmetic repairs, to simply rearranging your belongings in the most attractive manner and to facilitate "room flow." You may be so pleased with the results that you end up not selling your home at all!

(Refer: dmiHomeStagers Ltd - www.homestagers.co.nz)

You can also create a favorable first impression by getting a Building Inspection performed on your home. This will not only bring attention to problems the home may have, which you may like to disclose or which you may decide to repair, it will give you a punch list to complete before your buyer can find the problems.

Your buyer is sure to be impressed, and will know by the condition and care of the home, that your top-dollar asking price is more than fair.

6 Ways to Speed Up Your Sale

- Price It Right: Take the time to research the market to enable you to make an informed decision regarding price. Set a price at the lower end of your property's realistic price range. If your price expectation is unrealistically high, you will attract the interest of the wrong buyers which often results in properties remaining on the market for longer and becoming "stale".
- Presentation Presentation Presentation - Make the effort. Remember, you only have one chance at making a (GREAT) first impression. Get your house market ready prior to it's introduction to buyers.
- Be Flexible about Viewing Times: It's often disruptive to have a house ready to show on the spur of the moment, but the more often potential buyers can see your home, the sooner you will get a sale.
- Be Ready for the Offers: Decide in advance what price and terms you will find acceptable.
- Be Flexible in Price: If your home has been on the market for more than 30 days, without receiving any offers, be prepared to lower your asking price.
- Invest in Marketing: It's hard to sell a secret. Work with your agent to tailor a cost effective marketing campaign to ensure your property receives maximum market exposure.

Moving Tips For Sellers

- Give Forwarding Address to Post Office
- Send Change of Address Cards to:
Banks, IRD, Insurance, Doctor, Dentist, Vet, Gym,
Magazine Subscriptions, Relatives, Friends, Work,
Business Colleagues, Schools, Mobile Phone
Company, AA, Sports Clubs etc
- Have a "First Open" Box:
Include items you may need most on arriving in your new home - toilet paper, soap, water, first aid kit,
snacks, pen & paper, hammer, screw driver etc
- Check Insurance Covers Move
- Cancel the Newspaper
- Record Final Water Reading
- Record Final Electricity Reading
- Record Final Gas Reading
- Consider Pet Needs When Travelling

7 Points of Negotiation

- Purchase Price: "Nothing Ventured, Nothing Gained". Do not be offended by the opportunistic Buyer who makes an initial low offer. The figure at which negotiations finish is more important than where they start.
- Deposit: A large deposit demonstrates commitment and is usually a good indication of a sincere buyer.
- Settlement Date: Would you accept a lower / higher price for a shorter / longer settlement period?
- Possession Date: Check if the date the purchaser proposes to move in is acceptable to you.
- Chattels: Check the list of fixtures / items that the buyer expects to remain with the property.
- Repairs: If repairs are required, determine the cost and whether you are willing to do the work or would you rather reduce the asking price accordingly.
- Contingencies: Other factors the buyer may want before declaring the contract unconditional. i.e:
Inspections, Selling A Home, Obtaining Finance, Reviewing of Contract by Solicitor.
